

SPEAKER INGRAM WARNED MEMBERS

TIME LIMIT FOR NEW BILLS
CLOSES NEXT WEEK.

BANK BILL IS PRESENTED

Also Measure Providing for Woman's Suffrage—Cannon's Successor
In Doubt.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, Feb. 3.—Speaker Ingram at the close of the morning session of the assembly today announced that under the rules the introduction of new bills by members will be stopped by the end of next week.

He added that the committee on legislative procedure will vigorously oppose any extension of time. Both houses of the legislature have adjourned until ten o'clock next Tuesday morning.

Senator Owen today introduced his bill providing for the guaranty of state bank deposits. The measure provides each state bank shall set aside a fund to consist of one per cent of its average deposits by the second Monday in January, 1912, and one-tenth of one per cent annually thereafter until a fund of two per cent of the average deposits is reached.

This fund is to be in charge of the state bank examiner and banking commissioner. The bill is similar to those on the subject passed by the Nebraska and Oklahoma state legislatures. It will be considered in joint hearing before the legislature next week.

Senator James of Richland Center today introduced a bill favoring woman's suffrage.

Declaring that "conservative" people of the state are of the opinion that automobile manufacturers and of road building machines appear to be the prime in the so-called good roads movement now pending before the legislature, Rep. Hansen today introduced a joint resolution providing "that the so-called expert road commission to be created by taxation, shall not receive favorable consideration by members of the legislature." Speaker Ingram declared the resolution out of order, because it tied the hands of the legislature on a matter it had not yet had time to dispose of.

Attorney T. L. Lyon of Superior is today prominently mentioned for the appointment to head the state tax commission, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of S. L. Gibson of Fond du Lac yesterday. The resignation takes effect May 1.

PROGRESSIVES TO ORGANIZE STATE, IS REPORT TODAY

Conference Held in Governor Mc Govern's Office of Legislative Leaders This Morning.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Mystery surrounds the purpose and significance of a conference in the office of Governor Mc Govern this morning, at which were present a number of progressive leaders in the legislature and others prominent in the movement.

While all of those who attended the conference were unusually reticent it was learned that it was called for the purpose of taking preliminary steps toward the organization of a Wisconsin branch of the National Progressive Republican League.

When asked to verify this report this afternoon, Governor Mc Govern said he had nothing to give out on that matter.

Among those who called at the executive chamber during the morning and joined in the deliberations were Lieut. Governor Morris, Senators Sabin, Blain, Owen, Kramery, Harkness, Ingram, Assemblymen McConnell and Crowhart.

It was reported that Mr. Crowhart attended the meeting as the personal representative of Senator La Follette.

Charge Is Made in State Legislature
By Members Who Want To Remove Fair From Milwaukee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., Feb. 3.—Whether the Wisconsin state fair is or ought to be a purely agricultural fair and whether in view of the annual scrap in which the bill shows involves the state board of agriculture and many state officers it ought to be removed to some other city and "reformed" is a question that is going to agitate the legislature considerably this winter.

The fair has been started by the introduction of two bills—one by Thomas Mahon of Shawano to remove the fair to Wausau and the other by Julius Demhardt of Winnebago to take it to Oshkosh. Hearing the (this) read caused the Milwaukee delegation in the assembly to smile, but the measures possess more significance than appears on the surface.

The authors of both removal measures are in dead earnest, and before the session is over they will have proven that they can at least scare Milwaukee, even if they don't get any farther. Assemblyman Mahon offers his removal bill as an economic proposition.

"The present 'Milwaukee' state fair is not an agricultural fair, to begin with," said Mr. Mahon. "This, however, was its original purpose—to educate the farmers of the state. Now the farmers in the northern part have about the only ones who need educating. In the southern part they have the university agricultural college and experiment station, and in the north we have practically nothing. The Milwaukee fair is too far away from the agricultural population. I do not argue that holding the fair elsewhere than in Milwaukee is going to make it a better financial proposition, because I do not admit that it should be a money-making scheme. It is purely an educational matter."

Mr. Demhardt argues that Oshkosh, besides having a large city which can take care of a state fair crowd, is more centrally located in richly endowed with interlaminar and steam railroads, and lies midway between two other state fairs—Springfield, Ill., and the Twin Cities. He believes a fair at Oshkosh will attract a larger number of farmers, and especially from that part of Wisconsin which needs the lessons which the fair is designed to teach.

Indications are that both assemblymen and their colleagues from the northern and western parts of the state will work together for the removal of the fair, and then "fight out" the matter of a new location afterward.

WARREN DECLARES HIS PARDON DOES NOT END TROUBLE

Controversy With Courts on Part of Socialist Editor Will Continue
In Spite of Pardon.

[Copyright 1911 by United Press.]
Grand, Kan., Feb. 3.—That the commutation of sentence granted him by the president will not end his controversy with the courts is the declaration of Fred D. Warren, socialist editor of the "Appeal to Reason," who had been sentenced to serve six months in the federal prison and fined $1,500 for "obscenity of the mails." In a statement written for the United Press, following Warren's statement:

"Mr. Taft's unqualified pardon in my case by no means ends my controversy with the courts.

"The methods employed to secure my conviction were outrageous and unparalleled. It was an effort on the part of unscrupulous politicians to suppress the 'Appeal to Reason.' The man under whose instructions my prosecution was begun has been thoroughly discredited and eliminated as a political factor in the nation. On the other hand the 'Appeal to Reason' is larger and stronger today than before. The work of exposing corrupt courts will be continued with increased vigor.

"There are thousands of unfortunate victims of judicial tyranny in prison today and there are thousands of weeping wives and hungry children as a consequence. The methods employed to put those men in prison differed in no respect to those employed to secure my conviction. Fortunately I was in a position to fight and backed by five thousand loyal comrades we have won a tremendous victory.

"The fruits of this victory will turn to ashes, however, if we do not press the advantage we now possess in securing justice for those less favorably situated than myself.

"The federal judiciary assuming powers not granted it by the constitution menaces the American republic. Every man who loves freedom and hates injustice will now join the socialists in their fight against judicial corruption."

TAKE AWAY WOMEN'S DEFENSE--OH, NO!

But New York Federation of Women's Clubs Is Looking For Safe Substitute For Dearly Hatpin.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Feb. 3.—Woman has at last awakened to the danger of the deadly hatpin. At any rate, she has manifested a disposition to accept a less dangerous substitute, providing it answers her purpose equally well, and—most important of all—does not mar the beauty of her head gear.

As a result of the public agitation which has been going on for some time the City Federation of Women's Clubs made special provision for an exhibition of safety hatpin devices at its annual convention held today at the Hotel Astor. Several ingenious inventions were shown, ranging from tips of various kinds to be placed on the ordinary hatpins to complicated devices resembling wire cages. All were examined with critical interest by the club women present. And judging from their comments the present crop of hatpins of a foot or more in length is not likely to be abolished very soon.

REBELS ATTACKED JUAREZ TODAY IN DESPERATE BATTLE

City Across the Rio Grande Deserted
by Its Inhabitants Who Flee to El Paso.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
El Paso, Tex., Feb. 3.—With the rebel army advancing and the town completely hemmed in, Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, must fall when the rebel forces demand its surrender.

Both railroads entering and leaving the city are cut and all wires down. The defending forces of the federal troops are only about three hundred men.

It is now reported that the town will be taken late this afternoon after the federal forces have had proper notification of an attack.

The city itself is completely depopulated today, most every person having fled to this side of the Rio Grande.

All business is entirely suspended and the fighting between the federal and rebel troops continues.

The federal army is gradually falling back and cannons have been mounted on all public buildings in the city in preparation for the attack which the rebel general, Orozco, sent word would take place at three this afternoon.

The federal forces promise a stubborn resistance.

A brother of the rebel general Orozco is in a Juarez jail charged with treason.

Abram Gonzalez, provisional governor of Chihuahua, says the rebels in the Ojinaga district under Gen. Sanchez have taken Coyame.

Juarez is this afternoon awaiting the attack. Less than four hundred federal troops are in the city; but reinforcements are enroute from Casas Grandes.

At ten o'clock this morning the mayor of Juarez ordered all places of business closed. The American and other foreign flags were at once put out by foreign residents. The consuls have not had any notice of attack. The mayor declined to say why he issued the closing order.

LORIMER'S RIGHT TO SEAT IN SENATE IS DENIED BY ROOT

New York Senator in Careful Analysis
Of Committee's Report, Made Speech Today Against Lorimer.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—That Senator Lorimer holds his seat as the result of bribery and on that account should not be permitted to continue in the senate is the conclusion reached by Senator Root and announced by him in his argument on the floor of the senate today.

Senator Root spoke without notes, and in the main his address consisted of a careful analysis of the testimony taken by the committee. The argument was almost entirely logical.

The speaker lost little time in indicating the conclusion he had reached which was entirely antagonistic to Senator Lorimer. He held the position that the investigating committee had been at fault in permitting either the attorney for Lorimer or the attorney for the Chicago Tribune to direct its course in the matter of connecting Senator Lorimer with the corruption of members of the Illinois legislature, but agreed that even in the face of its fault in this respect, the committee had obtained sufficient evidence to effectually taint and invalidate the election.

BOTH TEAMS WILL PLAY IN BRODHEAD

School Players Will Meet Brodhead Teams This Evening.

Both the first and second high school basketball teams will go to Brodhead this evening to meet the Brodhead high school teams. Janes-ville's hopes are high to win tonight as this game will be an important one in deciding whether Janesville will be in the running to represent this district in the annual basketball tournament at Lawrence this spring. Brodhead's first team boasts of having a clean record so far this season and has defeated the rival teams by good margins.

Janesville's victory of last Saturday has inspired confidence and some strenuous practice has been done by both teams in preparation for the game tonight. It is also hoped that a return game can be scheduled.

Couch Knudson and L. D. Marrows will accompany the teams and the members of the squads who will go

Improve Your Cemetery Lot

We all know how improved the surroundings of a lot become as soon as a monument is erected upon it.

Most of us acknowledge that we owe to our deceased relatives a permanent memorial in the form of a monument, but usually business and other duties have prevented us taking the steps to have this matter attended to.

The first opportunity you have come in and we will gladly show you just what we have in the best kinds of granites, and latest de-

LAND CASE IS HEARD BEFORE JUDGE GRIMM

Question As to Settlement of Deal is Being Argued in Circuit Court.

The case of Frank Smith against Mark Murphy is being heard before Judge Grimm in the circuit court today. The complaint in the action alleges that in June, 1909, Frank Smith, a resident of the city of Beloit, owned a farm in Minnesota of 210 acres, and two houses and lots in Beloit. There was a mortgage of $2,500 on the farm, and one of $400 on one of the houses. About this time it is alleged he met Mark Murphy, then connected with the William H. Brown Land Company, who suggested that Mr. Smith exchange his property for a farm in Sherburne county, Minn., which Mr. Murphy said he owned. In addition to this, it is alleged, Mr. Murphy said he would pay Mr. Smith $300 in cash.

Mr. Smith finally agreed to make the exchange, and caused his property to be deeded to Mr. Murphy. Mr. Murphy in return gave him a contract for a deed on the land in Sherburne county, Minnesota, according to the terms of which he was to furnish him a deed within a short time thereafter.

When the time expired, it is alleged, Mr. Murphy was unable to give a deed. He then gave Mr. Smith a contract for some land in Montana. Later it developed that Mr. Murphy did not own this land; that he simply had a contract for it.

Mr. Smith was not satisfied with this, so Mr. Murphy informed him that if he wished, he could give him a deed for the Minnesota land. Mr. Smith was willing to accept this and came out for the purpose of getting the deed. Mr. Murphy, it is alleged, again failed in his promise, and up to this time has not given Mr. Smith anything. He still retains Mr. Smith's property.

Mr. Murphy denies generally all the allegations of the complaint. The subject of the action is to secure a judgment against Mr. Murphy for the consideration agreed on between the parties, the damages sustained by Mr. Smith amounting to $8,000.

It is made by perspiration from bloodroot, lobelia, pine bark, wild cherry, etc. It cures a cough in a few days without filling the lungs with poisonous phlegm. The irritation is relieved, the lungs healed without danger of pneumonia. It's safe for children or old people. Get a bottle today for 25 cents. Ford

Look At This Classy Ford Model "T" Torpedo Runabout

Well, eh? It is the very epitome of speed, comfort and safety, and think, it is sold to you without any "extras." Comes completely equipped, Extension Top, Automatic Brass Wind Shield, Speedometer, two 6-inch Gas Lamps, Generator, Famous Ford Magneto built into the motor, 3 Oil Lamps, Horn, Tools, all for $725.

"High-priced quality in a low-priced car." The car of Vanadium steel construction. The care of extreme simplicity in operation. The car of quick accessibility. The car easy to understand, easy to drive. You do not have to take your hands from the wheel in driving the FORD Model T Car; regulation of speed, forward and reverse, is all done with the feet, leaving the hands and eyes free to guide. FORD Model T Cars, of which this Torpedo Runabout is but one type, are absolutely standard cars. By this we mean it is the same car today, that is, the design and mechanism and construction, as it was four years ago. Think of the safety this means to you, how different from the car whose design and construction is changed yearly.

FORD Model T Cars have been time-tested, time-tried, time-proven, and to use a slang phrase, they have "delivered the goods" without any disappointment.

Visit our garage and examine the several FORD Model T Cars.

FORD Model T 5-passenger Touring Car, completely equipped $780.00
FORD Model T Torpedo Runabout, fully equipped 725.00
FORD Model T Open Runabout, fully equipped 680.00
FORD Model T Roadster with Rumble Seat, fully equipped 680.00

Contrast them with other cars and see if there is anything any other car can give you that is lacking in FORD Model T.

Consider the operating expense, bearing in mind that FORD Model T Cars are the lightest in weight of any cars in the world, size, capacity and power considered, and you will understand why they are the cheapest car in the world to maintain.

Consider likewise Ford Service for Ford Owners. By this we mean that the interest of the Ford Motor Co. in your car after you buy it is equally as strong as your own interests; that you shall have satisfactory service, and to this end Ford dealers wherever you meet them (and you cannot drive 50 miles in any direction without meeting one) carries in stock a full supply of Ford parts. Talk this Ford Service for Ford Owners over with us.

THREE ARRESTED ON SERIOUS COMPLAINT

Edgerton Man and Two Women Taken into Custody At St. Charles Hotel
Last Night.

Arraigned before the municipal court this morning Abel Griffin Walker, a well known local character, a woman giving the name of Doris Cole and Earl Wescott, a resident of Edgerton, were bound over under $200 to appear tomorrow morning to answer to the charge of alleged "lewd and indecent" conduct at the St. Charles Hotel last evening. The trio were taken into custody in a room at the hotel by Officers Sam Brown and Morrison last night, the man and the Cole woman being partially disrobed when arrested. There was a quantity of liquor in the room and the three had been partaking freely. When arranged this morning Wescott was willing to pay any fine and plead guilty at once if it could all be kept quiet and the two women asked for an examination. The Cole girl claims she is married while Abel Griffin Walker, was recently the prominent figure in a similar episode, marrying the state's witness to escape prosecution. It is said she went to Chicago with her husband yesterday morning, where he has a position with a railroad, but returned to Janesville on a later train in time to be caught in this last scrape. Wescott is also said to be a married man with a wife and children living in Edgerton.

Addressed Students: Francis Grant spoke to the students at the high school Wednesday morning on "Writing and Spelling," emphasizing grammar and urging more attention to these subjects. Yesterday morning Prof. Roberts gave a talk on astronomy.

Went to Deloit: Last evening the members of the J. B. C. club of this city were guests of the J. B. G. club of Deloit at the home of Miss Grayce Murray. The evening was pleasantly spent with games and music after which a delicious three-course lunch was served. The young ladies returned on the last car.

NASHAGED RESIDENT AT COUNTY HOSPITAL

Dr. and Mrs. William Horne Both
Broken Down By Illness Under Superintendent Barlase's Care.

Dr. and Mrs. William Horne, both aged people, last night moved to the county Hospital where they will be cared for by Superintendent Barlase.
Dr. Horne, is over ninety, and is one of the oldest residents of the city.
Owing to his increasing years, and the illness of his wife, he decided it would best to dispose of his property, that has long been his home on Park street, to the Janesville Realty Company and go to the county hospital, where both he and his wife can receive the best of care. The transfer of the property was made recently and on Thursday afternoon the doctor and his wife, a few years his junior, drove out to their new home, where they will be carefully cared for by Superintendent Barlase and his wife. The doctor has many friends in the city who have been anxious about him and will be glad to know he is to be comfortable and well cared for.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

WHEN you criticize folks and undertakings and conditions, do you criticize constructively or always negatively?

The other day I was puzzling over a birthday present for one of those difficult people who have so very much that it is almost impossible to find an unflattering note in their possessions.

There were four people in the room with me. As I turned over to them the different articles I had thought might be suitable, three of the four spoke up objecting to this or that, and only one made any constructive suggestion.

I think that was a fairly good example of the proportion of constructive and negative criticism in this world.

Negative criticism is of about as much use as a sign post which says, "This is not the way to goodness."

I have an acquaintance who has exquisite taste in dress. I admired her clothes so much that when I was going to have a new gown I sometimes talked it over with her. I don't any more. For, whenever she would frequently turn up her nose at my ideas, assuring me that "she wouldn't think of having that; nobody wore that sort of thing now," she hardly ever offered me any constructive criticism and seldom said, "I would have this."

And I think it was not because she had any objection to sharing her ideas, either. Merely that the lazy habit of negative criticism was so strong with her that she couldn't escape it.

And most people are not only inclined to be negative critics, but worse still, they are apt to be also indelible critics.

An honest, definite, negative criticism is worth something, but an indelible negative criticism is absolutely valueless.

A twentieth century business man from the "I will" city was speaking to me one day of people who criticized him, and this is what he said:

"I like criticism. But I want it definite. If a man should come into my office and say, 'Look here, you are running your business all wrong. You don't know anything about this business,' I wouldn't kick him out. I'd say, 'All right, tell me just what I'm doing wrong and how I can do better.' And if he could point out any mistakes I was making and how I could correct them, I'd thank him and even pay him for telling me what a fool I'd been. But if he couldn't tell me anything definite, well, then I'd think I had a right to get pretty thoroughly mad at him for daring to criticize me."

When a woman discharges her maid, or an employer his employee, I think the employer should tell the one discharged exactly what was the matter with the work.

And if the employer does not do this, I think the discharged employee should go to him, and frankly and pleasantly ask for definite fault-finding, so that when he seeks a new position or service in a new position he may rear it on the foundation of this criticism.

The world needs definite constructive criticism very badly.

But it doesn't have much use for the indelible negative critic. Which kind are you?

Indian Agent Smith's attention was called to the affair and he had Plenty Hawk arrested and informed the girl's mother in Chicago.

Mrs. Sullivan promptly boarded a train, hastened west and persuaded her daughter to return home with her.

The two arrived here Jan. 14, but in a few days the girl determined she would wed the Indian, and her mother's tears failed to keep her from going west again. She reached the Lodge Grass sub-agency three days ago and was met by Plenty Hawk.

Mrs. Sullivan and Plenty Hawk were brought to the agency for a hearing yesterday morning. Also Sullivan informed the officer in charge that nothing could deter her from marrying Plenty Hawk. Permission being of no avail, and with no law to prevent the marriage, consent was given Plenty Hawk to use his own judgment. Later the fact of the tribal marriage was learned, and the arrest of Plenty Hawk followed.

Plenty Hawk has a ranch on Soap Creek, 60 miles from the agency, and owns several hundred head of horses and cattle, and is considered one of the wealthiest Indians on the reservation.

The Kitchen Cabinet

THE KITCHEN CABINET

ENDERBANDS stroke a little. And it stings you for your pains; it stings like a man of metal. And it stings you all the time.

"The same with common natures; two you kindly, they rebel; but be tough as rubber, grates, and the rogues obey you well."

The Breakfast Table.

As the appetite is more apt to be fickle in the morning, great care should be taken that the table is attractive. A well-laid table and a few dainty dishes will often call forth an appetite.

The no-breakfast fad has died a natural death, although it certainly had much to recommend it. Think of the time, temper and bother saved each morning. The ideal English breakfast would not suit the average American. Pigeon Pie and Collared Tongue seem a little hearty for the "simple breakfast."

The French idea of a roll and a cup of coffee is simple, easy to prepare, but would be very monotonous day in and day out.

For those who are able to have several sets of china, that used for breakfast should be different from the dinner set. Blue is generally considered a good color for the breakfast china.

A well-laid table is decidedly military in its appearance, precision is the watch word. Knives, forks and spoons are laid in careful order, a half an inch from the edge of the table. The blade of the knife turned toward the plate, at the right, the fork times up at the left. The spoons in regular order next to the knife. The first article of silver to be used is the one farthest from the plate. The water glass is placed at the point of the knife, the napkin at the left of the fork and bread and butter plate when used, just above the napkin. One may decorate a table with a few flowers laid carefully on the table. But it is best not to trifle too much with the military effect of the table.

Southern Rolls.

Take six cups of flour, two eggs, one cake of yeast, one cup of milk, two tablespoons of lard and a teaspoonful of salt. Mix and set to rise, knead, shape into rolls and let rise again. Bake in a hot oven.

Every Man a Sculptor.

Every man is the builder of a temple, called his body, to the God he worships after a style purely his own, nor can he get off by hammering marble instead. We are all sculptors and painters, and our material is our own flesh and blood and bones. Any nobleness begins at once to refine a man's features, any meanness or sensuality to imbrute them.—Thoreau.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

Food Specialist.

SAVE VITALITY BY AVOIDING INHARMONIOUS FOOD COMBINATIONS.

Each food requires a special secretion for its digestion, as experiments upon dogs have shown. And the waste from each particular food requires for its elimination a particular germ. Pork requires five hours, ordinarily, in the stomach, rice one; this implies a conflict, the disturbing effect of which is at once apparent after eating a supper of rice and pork. Some foods digest principally in the stomach; some principally in the intestine. Therefore the mixing of foods differing much in chemical composition and digestibility entails a great waste of vitality, which can be avoided by discriminating in the choice of foods combining those that are chemically harmonious and that digest nearly alike, at a meal.

The Katherine Kip Editorial.

THAT LITTLE GRUDGE OF YOURS.

That little grudge you are nursing isn't worth one little of the attention you are giving it. No grudge is. The most unprofitable thing in the world is to cherish a grudge. It returns nothing but unhappiness and dissatisfaction.

And cherishing hard feeling is such an excellent way of making a hard pillow for yourself. If you don't believe it just try it. In some way John Smith who works in the same place with you has made you angry. Out of that fact you create a very nice little grudge which in time becomes a veritable Oliver Twist continually calling for more and more of your good time, your good thoughts and your good will, until finally it nearly bankrupts you and you become an object of solicitude to those who would like to be your friends. They like you but they are afraid of you and so the grudge begins to get in its first strides.

If you had some contagious disease your friends might, under the health laws, find a legitimate excuse for staying away from you until you recovered, but not so when you have contracted a grudge. If they do not wish to be fed into its jaws they must at least pretend to be friendly with you. They must pretend to be interested in you and all that, but it is usually safe to say that at the first provocation they will leave you and go into the camp of some one more congenial, for the man who is nursing a grudge is never a congenial companion.

And, after all, jealousy and envy are at the bottom of most grudges and the least foundation there is for either the bigger the grudge.

Now the man who carries a load like that around with him isn't likely to find his days things of delight or his nights ones of peaceful slumber. He is, on the contrary, likely to find his days difficult and his pillow hard.

He who carries a grudge is in an excellent position to destroy himself. Nursing the thing taxes the strength that should go to building up his legitimate interests. Then, too, a grudge requires so much time in trying to keep it from the view of others that there is little left for the really legitimate affairs of life.

Therefore, if you have been nursing a grudge, drop it. It isn't handy and it isn't worthy of you. You should be too big to think of harboring such a thing. Life has too many other interests. There are too many sweet and beautiful things in the world to allow one's chances to be destroyed by entering to a monstrosity like a grudge.

Let the ignorant man and the mentally deficient person take up with a thing like that, but keep your own hands free of it. A bigger and better thing to do would be to get others to let it alone. Even the ignorant man and the mentally deficient one can't afford to have anything to do with it. Society can't afford to have any man maintain that attitude towards his fellows because it means all that is best in life.

Baking Helps

Valuable Suggestions

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, Expert of the Art of Baking, as taught by Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill

Helpful Cakes Made Right

Always sift flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times. The more sifting, the lighter the cake. Remember that! To cream butter and sugar quickly, warm the sugar slightly. Beat yolks of eggs with rotary beater. Whip whites of eggs with flat spoon whip. Water makes lighter cakes; milk makes richer cakes.

To mix a cake, first cream butter and sugar thoroughly, then add yolks, if used. Then alternately add moisture and flour that has been sifted with baking powder and stir until smooth and glossy, adding egg whites after thoroughly mixing.

Always use K C Baking Powder. Biscuit helps

At sifting flour and K C Baking Powder at least three times.

Have shortening cold and firm. Mix dough as soft as it can be handled. The softer dough goes into the oven, the lighter the biscuit when it comes out. It is easier for K C Baking Powder to do its work in soft than in stiff dough. Mix biscuits very little. Do not knead. Stir with spoon or knife and press in shape to roll on floured board.

With K C Baking Powder results are sure and certain. Ask your grocer for K C.

Eat Luscious "Sunkist" Oranges

Seedless—Fibreless—Juicy and Sweet—A Perfect Fruit

Five thousand California orange farmers, raising 60 per cent of the state's entire crop, select, each season, their perfect oranges and pack them under the name "Sunkist." This enables you to recognize and buy California's choicest, tree-ripened oranges.

Until you have tasted a luscious "Sunkist" orange, you cannot begin to appreciate the excellence of oranges that are properly grown, rigidly inspected, carefully packed and swiftly transported. Serve "Sunkists" on your table tomorrow morning and learn the superiority of tree-ripened, fibreless, seedless, solid and sound oranges over the commonplace kind. "Sunkist" oranges are so nearly all food that they are much the cheapest kind to buy.

"Sunkist" oranges are thin-skinned and are hand-picked. The "Sunkist" orange is a firm, solid fruit. Ask your dealer for the "Sunkist" brand and make sure that each orange you get is packed in a tissue paper wrapper labeled "Sunkist." For these wrappers are valuable.

FREE—This Handsome Rogers Orange Spoon

Save 12 "Sunkist" oranges (or lemon or grapefruit) and send them to us with 12c in pay charge, packing, etc. and we will present you with a genuine Rogers Orange Spoon, of beautiful new design and highest quality. (Don't ask for a "Sunkist" wrapper and 12c. In sending, please send one-cent stamp, which the amount is less than 12c, on envelope above. We prefer your orange wrapper for packing. Don't send cash.) We will be glad to send you complete list of valuable oranges. No longer hold "Sunkist" and "Dixie" wrappers for premiums.

MISS MADELINE SULLIVAN.
18-year-old girl married Indian under tribal ceremony. Husband arrested. Girl goes east.

Holena, Mont.—Indian agents from the Crow agency in Montana raided the home of Plenty Hawk and 18-year-old Madeline Sullivan of Chicago, broke up their informal honeymoon, put the girl on the first east-bound train and locked up the Indian.

Plenty Hawk's abode is an affair of skins 60 miles from the agency, and immediately on receipt of a telegram from the girl's mother here, asking that every means be taken to prevent a marriage, Indian police were sent to the village.

Investigation showed that the brave, who is a widower of about 45 years of age, with five children, and the young white woman, had dispensed with the formalities of a civil marriage and had pitched their truth according to the Indian ceremonial.

Madeline Sullivan is the daughter of Mrs. M. K. Sullivan of 820 Crescent avenue, Chicago. She met Plenty Hawk while on a trip to Montana last fall and became violently infatuated with him. According to his Indian friends, he was attending the Sheridan county fair and rescued her from an unmanageable horse which she was riding.

The girl stole away from her companion to be with him, and even donned a swan costume and participated in the wild dances which were held at the fair.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Monroe, Wis., Feb. 2.—The death of George Percy, 42-year-old, of the county jail, in the last chapter in the tragedy enacted by him Tuesday night, when he shot and killed Fred Liechti, saloonkeeper, in the Liechti saloon and then walked out the front door and sent two bullets into his own body. It was thought after the murderer had received medical attention, he would live to be tried for his deed, but life suddenly went out while Father Sebastian Rohr was administering his last blessing. It is believed other honorariums due to the rupture of an injured blood vessel or the passing of a blood clot to the brain, terminated his life. The outcome is a fortunate ending to the most unfortunate affair. George Percy, who had lived with his wife and two children in the home of his father, died at 2 o'clock from St. John's Evangelical church.

WESTERN DRAMA BY F. E. LONG COMPANY

"The Lost Trail" Was Greeted By A Large Audience At the Myers Grand Last Night.

A large and enthusiastic audience greeted the Frank E. Long Stock Co. presentation of "The Lost Trail" at the Myers Grand last night, and it was generally pronounced as being the best play of Western life seen here for a long time. It was a mighty good play, and mightily well played. Tonight the company will close their engagement with the merriest, maddest farce comedy of the season "The Bowery Girl". As a source of pure fun, hearty laughter and a general bantering of "dull care", the Bowery Girl can be depended on for a good job. She is a thing of beauty and a joy forever in every sense of the word, and she will make you forget, forget, political scandals, the high cost of living and every other disagreeable subject. New vaudeville features at this performance.

JANESVILLE PEOPLE AT BELOIT PARTY

About Twelve Went to Line City At Fair Last Night in Chartered Car on Interurban.

About a dozen Janesville people attended a subscription dancing party in Cosmos hall at Beloit last evening, for which the famous John Hand's orchestra of Chicago furnished the music. The party from here chartered a private car on the interurban, the "Idle Moments," leaving here early in the evening and returning after the dance. The party was a very enjoyable affair, about 100 couples being present.

Among those in the party from here were: Messrs. and Mesdames D. W. Holmes, and A. J. Harris, the Messrs. Rueland, Roswell, Louise Shorner, Josephine Trent and Louise Morrill, and Messrs. Dr. Frank Van Kirk, William McNeil, Leo Brownell and Geo. McKee.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE PRESBYTERIANS

Congregation of First Presbyterian Church held its homecoming meeting last night.

The annual homecoming meeting of the First Presbyterian church, the yearly social and business session of the congregation, was held last night in the parlors of the church. About two hundred people were present at the gathering which was a most enjoyable one. The men of the church held charge of the supper, serving a delicious repast. The program afterward was opened with music by the Glee club, composed of J. C. Kline, Frank Paine, Len Mathews, and D. C. Barker. P. H. Kord, chairman of the meeting, outlined the history of the church for the past year, speaking briefly of the work done by each of the societies. Mrs. O. W. Atton gave a reading and an address was made by A. Wilkinson. The feature of the program was the presentation of the budget plan of finance for the church for 1911 by L. P. Wortendyke, treasurer. In the scheme all benevolences and expenses are estimated in advance and pledges are received to meet these, the disbursements being made according to the plan suggested by the general assembly of the Presbyterian church. A general discussion of the plan followed Mr. Wortendyke's talk and the amount of benevolences decided upon was $1,000.

The financial condition of the church was reported to be splendid and the work, along all lines, is progressing. Dr. J. W. Laughlin, the pastor, brought the program to a close with an address to the members of the church and congregation.

Breaking It Gently.

"Did she tell you I was a rare character?"

"Not in those exact words, but that was probably the meaning she sought to convey."

"What, exactly, did she say?"

"She said your ways were rather raw."

A western contemporary sends out a plea for a woman who can take a "puck of apples, some flour and a rolling pin and make a batch of pies that puts a man in love with even his next-door neighbors." Before men write such things they should study up a little upon the science of cooking—a few more ingredients are needed before even the best housewife can make pies.

CHAPTER VII.

TWO ON THE VERANDA.

REDFIELD met his young guest in dinner coat, looking extremely urban, and presented his "friend and neighbor, Mr. Enderby."

Enderby turned out to be the owner of the voice with the English accent which Leo Virginia had heard in the hall, but he was very nice, and a moment later Mrs. Redfield entered with Mrs. Enderby, a large lady with a smiling face. Then a voice she knew spoke from behind her: "I don't need a presentation. Miss Wetherford and I have already met."

She turned to meet Ross Cavanagh, the young ranger.

"How did you get here?" she asked in wonder.

"I rode across the hills. It's not far."

He, too, was in evening dress, and as she stared at him in surprise he laughingly protested. "Please don't scrutinize this coat too closely. It's the only one I've owned for ten years, and this is the only house in which I'd dare to wear it."

One of the guests was State Senator Bridges, a farmerlike elderly man wearing a badly fitting serge suit. He was markedly western. So was his wife, who looked rather uneasy and hot.

Virginia and Ross, being the only young folk at the table, were seated together, and Enderby remarked privately, "Ross, you're in luck."

"I know I am," he replied heartily.

He was, as Redfield had said, highly susceptible, made so by his solitary life in the mountains, and to be seated close beside this maid of the valley stirred his blood to the danger point. It was only by an effort of the will that he kept in touch with the conversation.

"I hadn't the least thought of seeing you here," said Virginia. "How did you happen to come?"

"Redfield telephoned me at the mill, and I came at once. I haven't been here since May, and I just thought I'd take a half day off. Luckily my understudy was with me. I left him 'on the job.'"

He did not tell her that she was the principal reason for this sudden descent upon Elk Lodge, and no one but Redfield knew the killing ride he had taken in order to be in at the beginning of the dinner. The girl's face and voice, especially her voice, had been with him night and day as he went about his solitary duties. Her life problem had come to fill his mind to a disturbing degree, and he was eager to know more of her and of her struggle against the vice and vulgarity of the Forks.

"How is your mother?" he asked a few minutes later.

"Not at all well. Mr. Redfield is to take the doctor back with us tomorrow. The century died out of her face, and the flexible lip drooped with troubled musing. 'I am afraid she suffers more than she will admit.'"

"She needs a rest and change. She should get away from her seat at that cash register and return to the open air. A touch of camp life would help her. She sticks too close to her work."

"I know she does, but she won't let me relieve her, even for an hour. It isn't because she doesn't trust me; she says it's because she doesn't want me sitting there—so publicly. She doesn't oppose my housekeeping any more."

"You certainly have made the old hotel into a place of intricate neatness."

She flushed with pleasure. "I have done something, but not as I'd like to. I really think if mother wishes to sell she could do so now to much better advantage."

"I've no doubt of it. Really, I'm not being funny, Miss Wetherford, when I say you've done something heroic. It's no easy thing to go into a place like that and make it habitable. It shows immense courage and self-reliance on your part. It's precisely the kind of work this whole country needs."

His praise, sincere and generous, repaid her for all she had gone through. It was a great pleasure to hear her small self praised for courage and self-reliance by one whose daily work was heroic. All things conspired to make a conquest of her heart, for the ranger bore himself with grace and dealt with this silver dagger. His face, seen from the side, was older and sterner than she had thought it, but it was very attractive in line.

Redfield appealed to the ranger. "Ross, you're all sorts of a reactionary. What do you say to this? Senator Bridges is opposed to all federal interference with state forests and state game."

The forester's eyes lit up. "But are they state forests and state game? What makes them so? They are lands which the whole people purchased, and which the whole people defended."

"Heh, heh!" chuckled Enderby.

Bridges bristled with anger and went off into a long harangue on state rights and the dangers of centralization, to which Enderby replied: "Dosh! The whole trouble with your bally government is its lack of cohesion. If I had my way I'd wipe out the senate. You're such blooming asses over here. You don't know enough to keep a really big man in your presidential chair. This fussing about every four years is plain rot. Here's Roosevelt gets in the midst of a lot of the finest kind of reforms, you know, and directly you go and turn him out. Then if you get a bad man you're to wait four years till you can fetch him a whack. Why not arrange it so you can pitch your president out the minute he goes wrong? I say your old rag of a constitution is a ball and chain on your national leg. England is immeasurably better off so far as that goes."

Ross turned to Virginia, leaving the political discussion to go on over his head. "I was back in the old island a couple of years ago, and you've no idea how small it seemed to me. It surely is a 'right little, tight little island.' I couldn't help wondering whether the men in parliament were as important as they seemed to think they were and whether England is not really an empty shell of empire, a memory of what it once was. I couldn't settle down there some way. I was homesick for the mountains in a month. But what scared me most was the pauper population of the old place—one in every thirty-seven must be helped. I came back to the States gladly. 'I guess I'm an American,' I said to my sisters."

To Leo Virginia the talk of "the curse of democracy" and "the decay of empire" was unexciting, but when Cavanagh told of the sheepmen's advance across the dead line on Deer creek and of the threats of the cattle owners who were better able to follow the discussion, Bridges was heartily on the side of law and order, for he wished to boom the state (being a heavy owner in a town site), but he objected to Redfield's ideas of "hotting up the resources of the state."

"But we're not," retorted Redfield; "we're merely defending them against those who would monopolize them. We believe in their fullest use, but we see no reason for giving away the resources when the country needs the revenue."

Mrs. Redfield rose as soon as the coffee came out. "You gentlemen seem bent upon discussing matters of no interest to us," she said, "so we'll leave you to fight it out alone. I'm sure you'll all agree with Hugh in the end. Like General Grant, he's a very obstinate man."

No sooner were they seated in the big living room than Mrs. Enderby began to relate comic stories of her household. Her cats had fits and ran up the wall. Her dogs were forever getting quilled by reason of foolish attacks upon porcupines, or else they came home so reminiscent of stunks that they all but smothered the cook. "Invariably they return from encounters of this kind just as we are sitting at dinner," she explained. "Furthermore, Enderby's ditches are habitually getting clogged and overflowing the lawn and filling the cellar, and he stands in terror of his cowboys. When I think of all those irruptions and distractions England's order and routine seem heavenly. But Charley finds all this amusing, more's the pity, and leaves me to set things in order. Most ludicrous of all to me is his habitual claim that the ranch is paying. I tell him there's an error in his bookkeeping somewhere, but he assures me that his receipts exceeded his expenditures last year, which is quite too incredible. You've no idea how high wages are and how little we make."

"Oh, yes, I have," laughed Mrs. Redfield. "And my cat had a fit too. Hugh says it's the high altitude. I tell him it's melancholia."

Cavanagh showed himself. "I hear so much laughter I'm coming in. We're all so insufferably political out here, and, besides, I came to see the ladies, and I can stay only a few minutes longer."

"You're not going back tonight?" exclaimed his hostess.

"I must be on my own precinct by daylight," he replied. "The supervisor has an eye on me."

Mrs. Redfield explained to Leo Virginia, "He rode fifty miles over the mountains."

"Thirty," corrected Ross. "But what does that matter when I'm in the company of such charming ladies?" he added gallantly.

"And now he's going to ride all the way back tonight."

"Think of that!" gasped Mrs. Enderby. "And no moon!"

"How can you find your way?" asked Mrs. Bridges, to whom this was a mortally dangerous journey.

"Oh, it's quite simple! If you don't bump against a tree or fall into the creek you may be quite sure you're on the trail," laughed Ross.

Mrs. Redfield knew the true reason for his coming and was not at all pleased, "for with all Leo's personal charm," she said to her husband, "he is socially beneath Ross Cavanagh even in a state where social barriers are low."

"Come out on the veranda," suggested Cavanagh, "and I'll show you the hills I must climb."

Leo accepted innocently, but as the young people left the room Mrs. Enderby looked at her hostess with significant glance. "There's the lady Ross rode down to meet. Who is she?"

"Her mother is that dreadful old creature that keeps the Wetherford hotel in Roaring Fork."

"No!" exclaimed Mrs. Enderby. "Yes! Leo Virginia is Liza Wetherford's daughter."

"But the girl is charming."

"I cannot understand it. Hugh came home a week or so ago full of her praise. And at this point her voice dropped lower, and the other drew closer."

(18) In what sense can God command us to do a thing without our being conscious of it?

(19) Verses 10-16—How did Elijah recognize this woman when he met her?

(20) How would it affect the spiritual value of this story if it should prove that God had directed Elijah to this widow by wholly natural means, Elijah having known her in advance?

(22) Is there any way to explain this story except by God's miraculous increase of the food?

(23) What is the practical import of this story to us?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 12th, 1911.
Elijah's Victory Over the Prophets of Baal, 1 Kings xviii:1-2, 17-40.

Hobble Skirt in Bible Time.

Can any one doubt, asks a writer in a French newspaper, that the ladies of Jerusalem in Biblical times were impeded in their walk, like the ladies of today? In the latter part of the third chapter of the Prophecy of Isaiah, says the writer before referred to, we get a glimpse of how these daughters of Zion dressed on gala occasions. We learn further, he says, from a passage in the Talmud (Babylonian), chapter vi. (Schabbata translation), that the robes of the ladies were so tight that they could only walk with short steps. By this means a greater opportunity was afforded to their admirers to observe them. The writer, quoting from the Vulgate, observes: "Nulli sub specie novum." The suggestion evidently is that the hobble skirt was in vogue in very far-away times.

An Effective Device.

Ashley—Swallowson has invented an alarm clock that will waken the deafest man in the world.

Seymour—The clock must make a terrible noise, then.

Ashley—No, it doesn't make any noise.

Seymour—Doesn't make any noise—how can it waken the sleeper?

Ashley—It's constructed so as to drop on his face.

But Marts of Trade.

Cities are not the producers of wealth. They are but the marts or trading places for the products of the wealth of the earth and of labor, and for the distribution of commerce. They are not the places for homes, for they have to be continually giving way to the growth and demands for trade.

True Patriotism

By REV. DAVID F. NYGREN
Pastor of Swedish Baptist Church
Hinsdale, Ill.

TEXT—As free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God.—1 Peter, II, 16.

Just as at Christmas and at Easter, we find many persons who revive their allegiance to religion, so we find a strenuous attempt on the part of many to reanimate their sleeping patriotism, which they express in a great measure by fire and smoke, the heritage of our warring ancestors.

I would first say that this ought and ought not to be so, all depending on what we mean with patriotism. If patriotism be of the right kind, we would endorse it. If to be patriotic means to be loyal, not to a mere selfish cause, but to a general high and noble cause, then we endorse it. Our dear "U. S. A.," though large, is not large enough. We would have the whole world, nay, more, all the worlds; yes, the heavens, too. As true servants we would be interested in all the possessions of our Master.

Christianity does not encourage particular patriotism in opposition to general benignity. If it did, it would not be adapted for "the world." The duties of the subjects of one state would often be in opposition to those of the subject of another, and men might, indeed, evil or misery upon neighbor nations in conforming to the Christian law.

Christianity is designed to benefit not a community but "the world." The promotion of the interests of one community by injuring another—that is, "patriotism in opposition to general benignity"—Christianity utterly rejects as wrong.

Still would not a doctrine of general patriotism be rational? We would answer in the affirmative. And Christianity does not appear to encourage the doctrine of being a "citizen of the world," and of paying no more regard to our community than to every other. That opposes to the natural and virtuous feelings.

If it were put in practice, it would destroy confined benignity without effecting a counterbalancing amount of universal philanthropy. Who indeed shall support and cherish and protect a child if its parents do not?

That speculative philosophy is vain which would supplant these dictates by doctrines of general philanthropy. It cannot be applicable to human affairs until there is an alteration in the human constitution. Not only religion, therefore, but reason and nature, reject that philosophy which teaches that no man should prefer or aid another because he is his countryman, his neighbor or his child.

This is an idle system of philosophy which sets out with extinguishing those principles of human nature which the Creator has implanted for wise and good ends.

He that shall so far succeed in practicing this philosophy as to look with indifference upon his parent, his wife and his son, will not often be found with much zeal to exercise kindness and benevolence to the world at large.

But to cherish and support our own children rather than others; to do good to our neighbors rather than to strangers; to benefit our own country rather than another nation, does not imply that by so doing we must injure other nations, or strangers, or their children, in order to do good to our own. Here is our point of discrimination which we will enlarge upon presently—a point which vulgar patriotism and vulgar philosophy have alike overlooked.

I dare not stop by saying that the right kind of patriotism would be to do good to my nation, and by doing this, not to do any menace to other nations. That would just simply be changing the Golden Rule to nothing.

By having this kind of an idea I would say: "Do nothing unto others." Then a person in order to be a general "patriotic" would need do "nothing."

No, our Christian way is better; it is the best. "Do unto others, etc." That makes a man take off his coat, turn up his sleeves and go to work! Not only so good that one does no harm; but so harmless that one must do good! Not only a negative in regard to not doing harm; but so strong a negative that one becomes a positive.

In the second place, I would say, not that it ought, but positively that it ought not to be so, in regard to the way we show our patriotism. As we have mentioned this expresses itself in a great measure by fire and smoke, by noise and a general disturbance; this being the heritage of our warring ancestors.

The spirit of true patriotism does not find its expression in boasting of success in wars which were fought before we were born.

"Reason and experience both forbid us," said the father of our country, "to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle."

To be true patriots is to bring the gospel to every creature, beginning in Jerusalem, our own land, and then to the uttermost parts of the earth.

It is related that when Columbus, on his historic voyage, was approaching the shores of the western world, a flickering light was dimly seen through the darkness by one of his sailors. "It may be," said Columbus, "that the faithful wife of some barbarian is waving a torch to guide him on his homeward way."
